BASEBALL'S Most Coveted Award . . . the World Championship pennant of 1959 was presented on Opening Night by Commissioner Ford C. Frick to an Honor Guard of Dodgers—Charlie Neal, Gil Hodges, Wally Moon and Skipper Walt Alston. It was the second such award won by Alston-piloted Dodger teams and no other manager in the history of the club had ever gained that honor. Alston's Dodgers beat the Yankees in a seven-game series in 1955, lost to them in another 7-game classic in 1956 and came from behind last year to top the Chicago White Sox in six games. The National League pennant, also presented at Opening Night by league President Warren C. Giles, was the Dodgers' tenth in modern baseball. The club won in 1916, 1920, 1941, 1947, 1949, 1952, 1953, 1955, 1956 and 1959. Alston is the only manager in Dodger history with three flags to his credit.

Milk = Energy!!

Baseball players know that energy may spell the difference between success and failure in their sport. Athletes the world over know that milk makes energy, because it's high in protein, rich in vitamins, and tastes good, too! Take a tip from the California dairy men . . . enjoy three glasses of milk every day . . . for the energy you need and want!
